THRILLING FIGHT FOR LIFE IN AIR

Runaway Dirigible Crashes Against New York Sky-scrappers when Engine Stops

AVIATOR CLIMBS NETWORK

Owens Throws Out Ballast and Lands Safely in the Trees at Brooklyn

NEW YORK, June 14.—A runaway dirigible balloon today flashed around the flag staffs on the city hall, crashed against a massive chimney on the city court building, played tag with sky scrapers in the downtown districts and finally floated across the East river into Brooklyn.

The balloon was navigated by Frank Owens, an aeronaut, who left Hillside Park, Belleville, suburb of Newark, visited Passaic, and then passed over Jersey City on his way to New York.

The first part of the flight was beautifully executed. Owens sailed from Belleville to Passaic, passed East river over the Hackensack meadows and Jersey City, crossed the Hudson river and found himself sailing over the skyscrapers of New York's downtown district. As he neared the city hall he came lower and as he reached the city hall park he was barely grazing the roofs of the neighboring buildings. He circled the flag staff on the city hall three times, coming lower each time.

On the third trip he endeavored to land in the park on the west side of the city hall. To do so he stopped his engine and the move nearly proved fatal.

As soon as his propeller ceased to give momentum to his dirigible, it became a plaything of the wind which nearly dashed it against the city hall. Owens hastily threw out several bags of ballast and his dirigible ascended, floating over the roof of the city court building. A hundred thousand persons gathered in the streets to watch the aviator extricate himself.

Rope Breaks

Over the city court building Owens threw out a stay rope, which was seized by willing hands and the monster dirigible hauled down. Just as Owens seemed to be nearing safety, the rope parted and the long triangular frame in which rested the aviator and his machinery was dashed against a chimney. The frame work bent in the middle from the blow and Owens was seen to make a flying leap into the netting which held the frame to the silk gas bag. He seized the rip cord as though to let the gas out of the bag but seemed to realize that such a movement would crash him against the building. Instead he tied the rip cord firmly so that it could not allow the gas to escape. The wind, catching the gas bag, threw it higher into the air and the helpless aviator was carried across Park Row, narrowly missing the World building and the tower of Brooklyn Bridge.

Lands in Brooklyn

As he passed the World building Owens released several more bags of sand and his balloon shot 1,000 feet into the air, at which height it soared over the East river. The river steamers thinking it part of a preconcerted plan, tooted vigorously. The balloon sped over Brooklyn. At Nostrand and Gates avenues, Owens cut his rudder rope, which was grasped by willing hands and the balloon was pulled down into a tree, narrowly missing the trolley wires. A fire engine soon arrived and the firemen hoisted a ladder, taking Owens out.

COMMENCEMENT AT PRINCETON TODAY

PRINCETON, N. J., June 14.—Distinguished visitors from many lands participated today in the 163rd annual commencement exercises at Princeton University, which began in Alexander hall. Degrees were conferred upon 218 members of the class of 1910.

ADOPT LOCAL LANDS REPORT

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—The senate adopted the conference report on the bill authorizing agricultural entries on coal lands. An amendment was made permitting limited patents on withdrawn as well as classified lands. The measure allows the use of surface ground for farming purposes without affecting control of coal deposits underneath.

MONITE RELIES ON PRAYER AND DIES

CHICAGO, June 14.—Oliver Pugh, 60, a Zion city follower of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, is dead today as the result of adhering to the teachings of his creed and relying on prayer for rat-snakelike bites. His arm swelled to the size of a churn and he suffered untold agony. Voliva prayed at the bedside incessantly without avail.

HAMILTON CALLS FLIGHT "NOTHING"

Daring Aviator will Soon Startle the People with Something Else, He Declares

TRIP IS A WORLD RECORD

Greater than Paulhan's Trip Because it was More Nearly Continuous

NEW YORK, June 14.—Charles K. Hamilton, premier aviator, today made light of his aerial journey from New York to Philadelphia and return, declaring that he intended in the near future to make a "real flight" just to show what he could do. It is probable that, as soon as the conditions are announced, Hamilton will enter the New York to Chicago or the New York to St. Louis race, for which immense purses have been offered. Hamilton's flight of yesterday is regarded by aviators as one of the most daring in the history of heavier-than-air machines. In a battered aeroplane in which he had flown hundreds of times in rain, wind and storm, he made the greatest cross country journey ever essayed in America and which, in many respects, far surpasses Louis Paulhan's London to Manchester trip. Paulhan made his flight of 186 miles in four hours and 11 minutes; actual flying time, he divided his trip up into two days. He flew in a machine nearly three times as large as the Curtiss biplane, in which Hamilton made his aerial journey.

The English country over which Paulhan flew afforded many good landing places in case of accident; Hamilton's landing place was in a swamp. Hamilton made the round trip, a distance estimated at 185 miles, in three hours and 34 minutes of flying time. The distance, in an air line, is 86 miles, but on his return trip Hamilton lost his way and went several miles out of his course. His average speed to Philadelphia was nearly 47 miles an hour; his average return speed nearly 51 1/2 miles hourly.

Another Propeller Broken

Hamilton's return last night was witnessed by countless thousands who were content to line the Battery and river front for hours to get a chance to witness the finish. Hamilton, the people knew, had landed in a marsh near South Amboy, N. J., because of trouble with his spark plugs. He secured new ones from an automobile and tried to rise from the swamp, an unprecedented feat. It failed and Hamilton smashed his propeller on a piece of buried log. He had to wait until a patched up propeller, the only one available, was rushed to him by automobile from Governors Island. Working almost knee deep in the mud of the swamp, the aviator and his assistants placed the propeller in place. Then willing hands carried the light biplane into the road, while Hamilton's machines begged him not to make the ascent from there. Along a narrow road which gave him only three feet leeway, Hamilton sped his machine for a hundred yards and then took to the air, missing the tree tops by only a few inches as he mounted. It was just 6:17 when he went into the air. Higher and higher he darted, reaching a fifteen hundred foot level before he came to an even keel. He explained later that in case of accident to the propeller he wanted to try to glide to New York, but there was no trouble. Like an arrow the little machine sped across the land to the Kill Von Kull, across the river to New York Bay, where hundreds of craft gave him a roaring salute. On towards Governors Island he sped in the gathering dusk. It was just 6:40 p. m., less than twelve hours from the time of his start, that he came to the earth on the spot from which he had ascended early in the morning.

Gets $10,000 for It

Hamilton made the flight under the auspices of the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger, both owned by Adolph Ochs. It is said he received $10,000 for his achievement. To show all New Yorkers what an aeroplane can do, Hamilton is preparing to fly, within a few days, from Governors Island in the Hudson river and around Van Cortland Park, at the northern end of Greater New York.

M'MILLAN LOSES THE THIRD ROUND

Judge O'Neal Finds for Defendants in Famous Case which will Go to the Supreme Court

The celebrated "Sam" McMillan case in which as heir to the late Alexander McMillan he seeks to recover an amount approximating $40,000 as the residue of the McMillan estate left in the hands of trustees for the payment of deceased's indebtedness of approximately $190,000, has finished the third leg of its journey to the supreme court for the defendants, the late W. W. Cargill, John M. Holley, E. C. Warner, D. D. McMillan, Wm. D. McMillan, John McMillan and Daniel McMillan, a corporation which took over the estate for the benefit of creditors, for the first time winners.

Trustees Were Honest

As there has been some criticism of the defendants, the following paragraph near the conclusion of Judge O'Neal's verdict will be read with interest. "The court is of the opinion that the trustees have been honest and faithful in their trust in every respect."

No Resulting Trust

The essential question of fact involved in the case was as to whether there existed a resulting trust for the benefit of the heirs of Alexander McMillan. Upon this point the late Judge Fruit held that such a trust existed, and in the subsequent hearing before him Judge Cameron L. Baldwin, referee, had coincided with Judge Fruit. Judge O'Neal flatly holds that, "No resulting trust is expressed or to be inferred from the language of the trust agreement executed by the McMillan trustees," a finding to sustain which he goes somewhat into the testimony had before Referee Baldwin.

Takes Up Accounting

As in case the supreme court overrules Judge O'Neal, it will have to take up the question of an accounting, the court makes brief findings in relation to that subject. The opinion holds that the trustees should be charged with the loss on certain St. Paul lots resulting from their neglect to record deeds for the property. It also holds that in the case of the claim of the National Bank of Chicago, which was settled by the trustees for less than the face of the claim, the defendants should be credited only with the amount actually paid in settlement. In regard to other findings relative to the accounting the court says, "In other respects the findings will be as claimed by the defendant's counsel."

To Appeal

Speaking for the plaintiff, Attorney A. E. Bleekman, with whom Geo. W. Bunge is associated in the case, said today that an immediate appeal will be taken and an effort made to reach the matter in the August term of the supreme court, the decision of which will probably be final as to the questions of fact involved and as to the final accounting.

KENTUCKIANS SHOOT UP SMALLPOX CAMP

WHEELING, W. Va., June 14.—News reached this city today of an attack on a smallpox camp of section negroes on the Tug river, near Crum, W. Va., by a gang who crossed from mtoe Kentucky side and fired several fusillades into the car, killing two negroes and scattering others who were in the car under quarantine.

CORONER'S JURY RETURNS VERDICT

Finds that Matt Ruesgen was Responsible for Murdering John H. Studier

"That John H. Studier died about 7:30 p. m., Saturday, June 11, 1910, at La Crosse, Wisconsin, of bullet wounds; that said bullet wounds were inflicted about 5 o'clock p. m., Saturday, June 11, 1910, at La Crosse, La Crosse county, Wisconsin; that the bullets inflicting said wounds were shot from a revolver in the hands of one Matt Ruesgen, and that said Matt Ruesgen killed said John H. Studier."

The foregoing is the verdict returned by the coroner's jury in the Studier murder case, following an inquest held this morning in the office of Coroner L. Kleber. The following were the jurors in the inquest: W. C. Winter, C. C. Hamilton, W. H. Babb, Chris Haraldsrud, Jas. Drake and John Dammon.

A number of witnesses were sworn but nothing new developed in the testimony given. Joseph and Elmer Johnson, aged 11 and 15 years respectively, testified that they were across the street at the time of the shooting. The latter testified that Ruesgen was about five feet from Studier when he pulled the revolver from his pocket and, firing a shot, said "There, take that."

Drs. J. L. Callahan, D. S. McArthur and G. J. Egan testified as to the nature of the wounds and what was found in the post mortem.

Michael Desmond, a drayman, testified he was driving north on Third street, and saw Ruesgen standing on the corner with his hat pulled over his eyes. Upon reaching the wagon bridge he heard the shots fired and saw Ruesgen run up the Burlington tracks. Witness tied his horses and chased Ruesgen across the tracks, but the latter finally disappeared in the woods.

Phillip Schwanzle, bookkeeper at the button works, testified that he heard the shots and ran out of the office and saw Ruesgen pass the building. He recognized him.

Louis Griffin was across the street and saw the shooting and his testimony was similar to that of other eye witnesses.

C. Pruett, proprietor of the saloon on the corner, testified that he first saw Ruesgen Saturday morning at 9 o'clock when he entered with several other employees of the button works. Ruesgen said he was through working for the button works. He had his check, amounting to $11.09, cashed and drank a small glass of beer, after which he departed. He then went toward the back door and toward the button works to get his overalls and tools.

Witness testified that he next saw Ruesgen about 2 o'clock in the afternoon with a man named Gelsensky. They each drank a glass of beer and then departed. Later in the afternoon Ruesgen returned.

Chief Webster, Detective McGrath and Patrolman Wendling were also sworn and testified as to what Ruesgen told them regarding the affair, the substance of which was heretofore published.

PROBE GERMAN FLOOD

BERLIN, June 14.—The government today ordered an investigation of the flood conditions in the valley of the river Ahr, where between 200 and 250 people have been drowned. The property loss will reach at least $2,000,000.

CONFERENCE RATE BILL NOW READY

Long and Short Haul Clause Adopted by House Is Retained by the Conferees

RATES CAN BE SUSPENDED

And Burden of Proof Rests with Railroad who Must Appear Before the Rate Commission

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—Senator Elkins (R., W. Va.), this afternoon presented the conference report on the railroad bill.

It provides that the bill shall contain the house long and short haul clause and the senate provision that the interstate commerce commission may suspend he operation of railroad rates for ten months pending investigation.

Section 12 and section 16 of the bill take effect immediately. The former applies to increased rates and under the bill such rates can be suspended by the interstate commerce commission at any time after the passage of the measure. This makes effective immediately President Taft's agreement with the railroads.

Section 16 provides for the appointment of a commission to consider the question of regulating the issue of stocks and bonds by railroads.

The burden of proof that a rate increase is reasonable is placed on the railroads and the interstate commerce commission is directed to give hearings and decisions in such cases preference over all other questions.

The other sections of the bill take effect in sixty days.

Insurgent Victory

Insurgents and congressmen from the prairie and mountain states won a notable victory in the retention of the long and short haul clause of the house bill. The victory lies with the house and particularly with Representative Mann, leader of the house conferees.

The clause had been adopted by the house and beaten in the senate. To many of the great railway systems it was one of the most objectionable in all the railroad bill discussion. In the conferees the senators stood out in the strongest terms for the exclusion of the clause in the report. The most telling argument against the provision was that it was unconstitutional. Mann consulted high legal authority and succeeded in producing evidence yesterday that convinced the committee that the clause was constitutional. Then he took the aggressive and prevailed upon them to accept the provision.

Under the existing law railroads may charge rates to mountain points far in excess of the through rates to the Pacific coast. The bill says that it shall be unlawful for a common carrier to charge more "for a shorter than a long distance over the same line or route in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance."

The railroads are prohibited from charging more for a short than for a long distance in any event except by permission of the interstate commerce commission, which may grant such permission where special business justifies the difference in rates.

Senator Newlands (D., Nev.) obtained permission to file a minority report on the railroad bill. It will be signed by Newlands and Representative Adamson, representing the democrats on the conference committee.

MITCHELL PRAISES INSURANCE PLAN

MADISON, Wis., June 14.—(Special.)—"Wisconsin has inaugurated a comprehensive and effective scheme for workmen's compensation," said John Mitchell, labor leader, who is here today helping organize the Wisconsin council of the National Civic Federation. "Considering the constitutional difficulties, perhaps the plan of Wisconsin's legislative committee is the most practical for a general compensation act. I think the difficulty about the scheme is that it takes from the worker right to sue, but that detail will no doubt be adjusted satisfactorily to workmen, if the scale of compensation is made high enough."

Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation, is also here. Other state branches will be formed by them.

"WHISK BROOM" IS WINNER AT ASCOT

ASCOT HEATH, June 14.—H. P. Whitney's Whisk Broom won the trial stakes today at the opening of the fashionable Ascot racing season. Dean Swift won second and Yellow Slave third. The country stakes, worth $5,000, were taken by J. M. Joel's Radiant with Joldevre second and Cellini third. Charles O'Malley won the gold vase, $2,000 added. Abatis was second and Apache third.

WILD ORGIES AT CHARLTON VILLA

Italian Police Now Believe American and His Wife Both Insane and Both Dead

COMO, Italy, June 14.—The police have almost despaired of getting any clue to the murderer of Mrs. Mary Scott Charlton, whose mutilated body, jammed into a trunk, was fished from Lake Como on last Friday from Constantine Isolottoff, the Russian suspect under arrest.

Isolottoff was in the "sweat box" nearly all night but to no avail. Isolottoff did not show the least embarrassment or confusion. Isolottoff's defense was so strong that the detectives suddenly switched their tactics and told him that they were convinced that Charlton killed his wife and asked him whether he could not furnish them with the clue to the murderer. Aside from saying that he knew Charlton was jealous of his wife and frequently worked himself into a frenzy through heavy drinking the Russian threw no additional light on the case.

Search Lake Again

United States Ambassador Leishman and United Consul Caughey at Milan brought divers and began searching the part of the lake where the body of Mrs. Charlton was found. Leishman and Caughey are convinced that Charlton was murdered.

Were Both Insane?

The police are becoming more and more convinced that either Charlton or his wife, probably both of them, was insane. Stories of wild orgies in the Charlton villa, of midnight dances on the lawn, with Charlton and his wife in the scantiest attire, of incantations and weird exercises that savored strongly of orientalisms, have been told to the police by country folk and villagers who happened to pass the Charlton home late at night.

Insanity Contagious

One of the official staff of Count Guiglia, the Milan procurator, who is superintending the investigation, said to the United Press today: "The Charltons were a strange couple. They did not do anything in a normal way. I think that Mrs. Charlton was insane and that her husband, probably to humor her, but possibly himself unbalanced with his association with her, adopted her whimsical ways."

"That she was insane I think was clearly shown at the time she shot the American lawyer (Wm. B. Craig) in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York."

"The woman suffered from a physical malformation and women have been known to go insane from similar defects. There is every reason to believe that Mrs. Charlton exerted a potent influence over her husband."

Tried Suicide Once

HARTFORD, Conn., June 14.—Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton, the victim of the Lake Como murder mystery, tried to commit suicide in this city in the summer of 1908 by jumping into the Par river. The suicide attempt followed her desertion by a man named Betts, with whom she lived as his wife at one of the local hotels for two months, according to the story told today by the manager of the hotel.

The trunk in which Mrs. Charlton's body was found bore the name "W. C. Betts" and it is believed the trunk was given to her by her companion of 1908.

CITY OFFICIAL IS HELD FOR THEFT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 14.—Wholesale arrests in connection with the theft of 40,000 bales of cotton from Memphis freight houses were made following the return of an indictment against Hugh Knott, of the city engineering department. Knott is charged with having entered into a conspiracy to steal cotton during 1908, 1909 and 1910. The cotton is alleged to have been taken from the freight sheds of the Iron Mountain, Rock Island, Frisco and Illinois Central railroads, and Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroads.

Knott is alleged to have secured most of the cotton.

Other arrests today were Cornelius Dwyer, prominently connected with a big transfer company, and C. M. Cole, a big cotton dealer.

The railroads now claim the thefts will probably amount to $200,000.

SHERIFF GUARDS STATE RECORDS

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 14.—Fearing a possible attempt to remove the books and records of the state to Oklahoma City in violation of the injunction of the district court, Sheriff Mahoney of Logan county today deputized a force of home guards to watch the state house to prevent such a move. Feeling runs high in Guthrie as a result of the evident intention of Governor Haskell to change the location of the capital before the official canvass has been made.

OWEN POSTMASTER OF MILWAUKEE

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—The president today nominated David B. Owen to be postmaster at Milwaukee.

DIAZ TAMPERED WITH U. S. MAIL

In Spite This Hard Charge Dalzell, Steel Trust Congressman, would Hush the Probe

SERIOUS CHARGE IS MADE

But Trust Tool as Chairman May Be Able to "Kill" what would Hurt Masters

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—Charges that agents of President Diaz have made a practice of tampering with the United States mails to the extent of opening letters addressed to supposed sympathizers with the Mexican liberal movement were made before the house rules committee today and six rifled envelopes were submitted in evidence. Chairman Dalzell, republican of Pennsylvania, notified Representative Willson, democrat of Pennsylvania, that the hearing would have to be concluded today. This action will probably result in the lid being slammed down on the investigation and will preclude calling to the witness stand Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney general, who, as United States attorney in Southern California, prosecuted a number of Mexican refugees. Dalzell is the steel trust congressman and the trusts are said to be backing up Diaz in payment for $900,000.00 of grants in Mexico.

John Murray of Los Angeles, worker for the liberal party of Mexico, told the committee that when he was in San Antonio, Texas, gathering information upon the alleged Mexican persecutions, he suspected persons of tampering with his mails. These letters were mailed from different towns to Murray at San Antonio.

Evidence is Plain

Letters were placed in envelopes in pre-arranged positions and in a large majority of instances, when the envelopes reached their destination the contents were reversed in position. Also as shown on the sample envelopes presented to the committee after the envelopes were opened, they were revealed with a crude dab of paste, the ridge made by this being plainly visible.

John K. Turner, the magazine writer, also produced letters and other evidence to show that in the post-office at Los Angeles, detectives had frequently been seen going over the mails.

He produced several letters reiterating the charge of tampering with government mails.

When Turner finished a spectacle, white haired, aged woman was introduced as "Mother Jones." "Mother," asked Chairman Dalzell, "where do you live?"

"Where the fight is," exclaimed the old woman with a proud shake of her white curls. "Wherever I can help, you will find me."

The time was limited, they told her, so she started in to tell her story of the persecution of Mexican liberals. Describing her experiences, she said:

"Gentlemen, it fills my heart with rage to think that his blood thirsty pirate Diaz, sitting on a throne, should reach over these orders and snatch people out of this free country."

WISCONSIN NEWS

BURT WILLIAMS
WARNS DEMOCRATS

In Milwaukee Address He Advises Them to Fight in Their Own Ranks

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 14.—Burt Williams of Ashland, editor, ex-mayor and politician, delivered his war cry to democrats assembled at the Jefferson club last night. It was an appeal for Wisconsin democrats to stand together for progressive policies and progressive candidates, to fight the battle out in their own primaries, to repel the seductive invitation of republicans, to beware of candidates in their own party who were suspiciously under the influence of big interests. Bryan and La Follette were pictured as the real leaders to be trusted.

The meeting was one of the largest the club has held in recent years. Mr. Williams' address seemed to meet with the approval of the members in every salient feature. He was repeatedly interrupted with applause. His denunciation of President Taft, Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich was cheered.

Brief addresses were also made by Rollin B. Mallory, Max Hotteliet, and others.

TO GET DAVIDSON
INTO THE FIELD

Petitions Are Being Sent Throughout the State by Senator Whitehead

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 14.—State Senator John M. Whitehead, Janesville, county optionist, is circulating petitions for the renomination of James O. Davidson for governor.

This news has brought consternation to the E. T. Fairchild camp. The supporters of Mr. Fairchild thought they had the opposition, as represented by Mr. Whitehead, effectively squelched at the "Taft" convention, last week.

They are angry because it has been revived, and declare that their man went into the field only after he had assurances that Mr. Davidson would not.

The Superior, La Crosse, Eau Claire and Rock county delegations to the convention at the Auditorium were in favor of Mr. Davidson for governor.

There is considerable doubt expressed here as to whether Mr. Davidson can be induced to come out, despite the support that has been promised him.

He has complained that he hasn't the funds with which to make a campaign. This is one of the principal considerations, it is said, that has deterred him thus far from going into the fight.

His friend, Magnus Swenson, has been especially active in trying to induce him to make the run.

The feeling between the Fairchild men and the Davidson men has been productive of a distinct squeak in the harmony lute.

And talk has again been revived that Mr. Fairchild will be asked to accept the nomination for lieutenant governor—if it can be obtained for him. He insists that he is going to stay in the field for governor, however. The only effect of the suggestion thus far has been to antagonize the friends of George B. Hudnall, who are likewise county optionists, and who want him to run for lieutenant governor, and not Mr. Fairchild.

GRADUATING CLASS
GIVE EXERCISES

SPARTA, Wis., June 14.—On Friday night the usual commencement exercises were given in the Armory. The stage was beautifully decorated with green and white bunting and evergreens. Across the front of the stage was the class motto, "Conquering and Still to Conquer." The program was opened by a song from members of the high school. Next on the program was the salutatory address by Lila Blank, entitled, "The Rockefeller Foundation." Following this was a musical number by the male chorus of the high school. Harry Hersh delivered the valedictory and oration entitled "The Increased Cost of Living," and other orations were given and special mention being due a declamation by Miss Margaret Laing, entitled, "The Death Disk."

Principal Elia Esch announced the class honors and presented the various trophies won by the students during the past year. Dr. Stiles then presented the diplomas, giving a few of the highest average standings for the four years. First place was given to Harry Hersh, who graduated from three courses, with an average of 94. Miss Lila Blank second with an average of 93. The next four came in the following order: Third, Rachael Davis; fourth, Jessie Powell; fifth, Jessie Shattuck, and sixth to Jennie Hitchcock. Lastly a song by the school chorus concluded the program after which hearty congratulations were extended to the teachers and the class.

Struck by Train
Charles Gonke had a narrow escape Saturday afternoon when he was struck by passenger No. 6, going east on the Milwaukee road. The wagon was demolished but he escaped with only a slight scare. Charles was coming to town from his farm in Sand Creek and as he neared the crossing near the Northwestern depot he saw the switch engine coming from the east and failed to hear the whistle of No. 6 and as he drove on the track, never looking to the west to see if any train was coming from the direction, No. 6 struck the rear of the wagon tearing it to pieces but he was unhurt.

MAINE LIKELY TO

Extortion of the "Interests" Tariff Bill too Much for the Voters of State where Hale Lives

AUGUSTA, Me., June 14.—The Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the feeling against the stand pat republican organization in this state, coupled with local conditions including the liquor question, may mean the turning of Maine into the democratic column in the biennial election in September.

Thirty years ago Harris M. Plaisted of Bangor was elected as a democrat-greenbacker candidate for governor and since that time the state has been safely republican, the majorities ranging from 48,000 in 1896 to 7,000 in the election of two years ago. The democratic state convention will be held in this city on Wednesday with two candidates for the governorship, Obadiah Gardner of Rockland for a number of years the master of the state grange and the nominee two years ago, and Frederick W. Plaisted of Augusta, who has for four terms been elected mayor of the capital city, long known as a republican stronghold.

United States Senator Eugene Hale, who has occupied a seat in the upper branch of congress since 1881, for his stand on public questions, has in the last few years lost his hold on the people of the state. All of the representatives of Maine including Senators Hale and Frye and the four congressmen, stood with the administration in the passage of the tariff bill and today there is strong opposition to these men among the insurgent element. These open and bitter dissensions in the ranks of the republicans over the state as well as over national issues are believed to make it quite possible that Gov. Fernald's 7,000 majority got in a presidential year will be overturned and Gov. Fernald, who will be renominated this year, be succeeded by a democrat.

THANKS TO TAFT

WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Taft received the congratulations of mid-western shippers for his prompt action in the matter of suspending the freight increases. A delegation of representative shippers called at the White house to express thanks. The party included: R. F. Spencer, J. B. Lincoln, T. M. Hanson, all of St. Louis; H. C. Barlow, F. B. Montgomery and W. J. Evans of Chicago; E. E. Williams of Cincinnati; J. M. Bellville, of Pittsburgh; F. W. Boltz of Pittsburgh, and W. P. Erickson of Minneapolis; W. H. Parlin, Canton, Ill.; Percy Warner, St. Louis, and E. J. McVan, Omaha, Neb.

MINNESOTA AND
THE NORTHWESTCURTISS TO FLY
AT MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, June 14.—(Special.)—The first flight by Glen H. Curtiss since his journey by air line from Albany to New York, which won the world's applause, will be made at the Twin City aviation meet, at the Minnesota state fair grounds, next week. All sorts of inducements have been offered him to give exhibitions of his cross-country flights, but he has declined them all. He will use the same machine with which he made his Albany to New York flight. In addition to Chas. F. Willard and J. C. Mars, who are also in the lime light because of sensational exploits, it is certain that Clifford F. Harmon, the millionaire aviator, who purchased Paulhan's machine with which the world's record for height was made at Los Angeles, will compete for a trophy to be offered for flights by amateurs, for which there will be several entries. Captain T. S. Baldwin is also expected, with his biplane. He has abandoned ballooning altogether and is devoting himself entirely to aeroplane flights. In addition to the great race between Curtiss, Oldfield with his Benz lightning car, and Minor Heir, and Oldfield's races against Curtiss, each of the four days' program will contain races by Oldfield and Kischler, with his Darracq car, to lower world's records, and at least two motorcycle races.

There will also be gliding competitions and stock motor car races, making up a program which for novelty, diversity and sensational features has never been equalled.

PRESIDENT HILL
MAKES A DENIAL

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 14.—Conversation is not synonymous with conversation in spite of the similarity of sound between the two words. This is a position maintained by L. W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, who declares that because of a little overmuch of conversation his views on conservation have been distorted. "Mr. Pinchot, in one of his cheerful, playful moods, announced that he had converted me to conservation. I shall write a denial," said Mr. Hill today.

"Mr. Pinchot has been meeting clubs, and because he has heard opinions at these meetings favorable to conservation he thinks the whole country wants it. But I have been meeting the people and I think I have a pretty good idea of what they want."

How To Get Fat Free

Don't Be "All Skin and Bone" when You Can Speedily Become Plump and Attractive.

50c Box of New Discovery Mailed Free

"Gee! Look at that pair of skinny scarecrows! Why don't they try Sargol?"

This should attract the eyes of every skinny, scrawny, cadaverous man or woman who reads this paper. The missing link between food eating and fat making has at last been discovered.

The principle which turns food into solid flesh has been located, analyzed and reproduced in tablet form for all to take.

The chronically thin are generally hearty eaters. Many a man with a big bay window eats less than some withered up shrimp with hips like two clam shells nailed to a board.

Eating will not produce fat unless the food be assimilated.

Assimilated is the word. Plump, well-nourished men and women assimilate their food. Skinny people do not.

That is all there is to it. Give a thin, scrawny woman the power to assimilate her food properly and in a fortnight she may develop a rounded figure which will be the admiration of passersby. Let any fat and sassy happy-go-lucky business man lose this power to properly assimilate his food and in a jiffy his clothes will hang in festoons upon his emaciated frame.

During the past ten or twelve months some very convincing tests have been made with a new treatment. It seems to contain what might be called the active principle of assimilation. Its record as a fat and tissue builder has been so remarkable that arrangements are now being made with leading papers whereby all readers can have an opportunity to test this new discovery free of charge.

The name Sargol has been given to the new preparation. By using it you may quickly become plump,

HIGHS MAY PLAY
A WINONA GAME

If the members of the team are not too widely scattered, it is likely that a baseball game will be arranged between the Winona and local high school nines for August 3, when an excursion will be run to that place from here. Nothing definite has been decided upon, but the matter will probably be considered shortly and arrangements made. Games between these two schools have always been a good drawing card, and it is probable that if a contest is arranged it will be a good one.

PROGRESSIVES DEFENDED

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Regular republicans were given a bitter rebuke for their attitude toward the progressives by Dooliver, republican of Iowa, in the senate in a speech on the tariff. The progressives had been condemned, he said, for no worse offense than taking the speeches of the president seriously and regarding the pledges of the republican platform as strong moral obligations. Dooliver referred to the Roosevelt administration as seven years of the most magnificent moral leadership the world has ever seen.

S.S.S. CURES
RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a specific blood fermentation, a souring of the circulation from an excess of uric acid accumulating in the blood stream. This uric impurity comes usually as a result of constipation, weak kidneys, indigestion and stomach disturbances. These systemic irregularities may not be of marked severity or of long duration, but each has a direct effect on the eliminative members of the body, which prevents the proper removal of the waste products. This refuse remains in the stomach and bowels, and souring forms uric acid, which the blood quickly absorbs.

Rheumatism is usually manifested in the joints and muscles. It is here its sharpest twinges of pain are felt, and stiffening of ligaments and tendons first commence. The pain of Rheumatism is caused by the contact of the sensory nerves with the gritty, acid formation which uric acid causes to accumulate in the corpuscles of the blood about the joints. The stiffening of muscles and joints is usually gradual. Constantly the blood deposits the uric acid into the joints, and slowly the natural fluids are dried up and destroyed. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic and serious. Rheumatism is sometimes inherited, for like all blood diseases it can be transmitted to offspring. This explains why some persons are afflicted with the disease, and suffer its pains, who have otherwise been perfectly healthy.

S.S.S. cures Rheumatism and cures it permanently. It goes into the circulation, and removes the uric acid, purifies the blood, and in this way destroys the cause. S.S.S. changes the blood from a sour, acid-steeped stream to a rich, healthy fluid, which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing muscles and painful joints, and filters out of the circulation the irritating matter which causes every painful symptom of the disease. When the blood has been purified and enriched by S.S.S., it nourishes the different members that have been weakened and starved because of imperfect blood. Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indecent. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

NO MAN IN LA CROSSE CAN AFFORD TO BE A STALWART

"The thing that makes me mad about men who, although not monopolists, are supporting the stalwart machine, is that they get the benefit of the fight La Follette and the rest of us back of him are making for the preservation of individual rights as much as do we who, in spite of them, work and pay to win the victories."

That is the way "Ed." Lyons put it one day last week, and here is what the Beloit Daily News says upon the same subject:

"Among the stalwarts there gathered are many of the most excellent citizens of the state. Many of them, such as many of the delegates from Beloit, are men who stand high in the community, who are known to be decent, law-abiding citizens, who work hard for the best interests of their own communities, who stand for the best things in local life."

"And yet these men, probably many of them thoughtlessly, lend themselves to a movement that is against their own interests. These men, or a great majority of them, are men of moderate means, men who can not be said to profit greatly from the flushed success of the special interests, men whom the increased cost of living hits as hard as it hits the rest of us. They depend on the prosperity of the whole body politic for their prosperity. Their interests are identical with the interests of their neighbors.

"And yet they can not see that their interests are threatened by the ever-fattening special interests. They fail to comprehend that those things that make for greater monopoly are the things they themselves ought to fear most. They can not see that new conditions make new issues and that no party can be strong unless it has the power to adapt itself to these new conditions and accept the new issues as they should be accepted."

It does seem strange. Brown works in a factory, Smith keeps a little store, Jones runs a little factory, Black clerks and Green practices medicine. The Morgan-Guggenheim Syndicate wants certain laws passed, Jim Hill and other railroad kings want other laws passed, all the other trusts want still other laws passed, and the purpose of each of these laws is to give to the trust that is back of it some grasp on the public domain or some advantage by which profit may be made. There is but a certain fixed amount of property and money in the United States, and it is to get more and more of this money and property that the trusts seek to control legislation. If they pass their laws and get the property and increased profits, will Brown or Smith or Jones or Black or Green be the richer? Do the Morgans and Guggenheims give anything away? On the other hand it is not a fact that the more the Morgans and Guggenheims acquire of the fixed amount of property in existence, the less there will be for Brown and Smith and Jones and Black and Green to acquire? There being only so much in all, can a few men get a million times their share and still leave the full shares of all the others?

But it is not alone the little fellow who is concerned. There is no philanthropy in monopoly. There is not a shipper in La Crosse big enough to be justified in being a stalwart. True, if two or three of our biggest shippers are "good," the railroads may for a time continue to "give" them a portion of the privileges which it is their right to DEMAND, and which they should not in justice be humiliated by receiving as a "concession." But that is for now. Each year the grip of monopoly tightens, its grasp widens. The time is at hand when the biggest manufacturer and shipper in La Crosse, a man who has put many vertebrae in the backbone of this city, a stalwart now as a business proposition, will have to stand up in the ranks of the "insurgents" and fight the railroads for the right to do business as an independent citizen or become a suppliant before traction monopoly whose consent to earn a profit he must have, or go

When Your Hair Is Dry and Dusty

(From New York Herald)

Mme. Theo doesn't believe in washing the head too often. Said she: "Too much wetting makes the hair coarse and brittle and in time it loses its color and becomes thin from use of too much soap and water."

There is nothing so good as brushing the head with therox when the hair is dry and dusty. Try this: if you want abundant, glossy hair: Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therox; keep this mixture in a sifter-top can and sprinkle a little of the powder evenly upon the head; then brush thoroughly through the hair two or three times a week. Therox keeps the hair beautifully lustrous, light and fluffy, and encourages its growth.

"This is an excellent cleansing shampoo in the summertime, particularly grateful and satisfying after automobile driving, tennis or other outdoor pastime."

out of business. The policy has been to take from the consumer rather than from the producer. But "2 from 1 you can't," and it will not much longer be possible to take more and more from the producer. The railroads MUST take more and more each year from somebody. When the consumer has no more to be taken, what will happen? The railroads will turn on the big manufacturer, and rob him, just as they have long robbed the little producer and the consumer. More watered stock every year, more dividends—where is it coming from? Listen to this now: Let the railroads and other monopolies continue to make the laws, and soon to meet the demands of the systems to which they give water and from which they take milk they will have to fleece the public "going and coming." They will make every shipper and every consumer pay the tribute that has been collected from the consumer and the small shipper.

SPOTLIGHTS

THE CRIPPLES' MARCH

An excruciatingly funny result achieved by Dr. Herbert L. Flint with his hypnotized subjects is the cripples' march, as it is called. As large a number of susceptible subjects as can be found are seated upon chairs at the back of the stage and one by one they are drawn forward by an irresistible influence and started to marching about the stage to the tune of a stirring martial march. After they are all marching, they are put through a silent drill, and Dr. Flint with a gesture, secures formations and intricacies of marching and drilling that military captains are proud to achieve by long, tiresome practice. All this is amazing and astounding, but something more follows, when Dr. Flint passes his hand over the bodies of the marchers and turns them into cripples, after which they still keep on marching in the ludicrous distorted positions that they have assumed. The scene closes with a drill of an awkward and crippled squad and the close of the scene leaves the audience wishing that it could see the same thing for an hour longer. A complete and entire change of program is presented at the La Crosse theater every night this week. A splendid class of volunteers have presented themselves for Dr. Flint to work upon.

PELHAM MYSTIFIES

The stellar attraction of the year in vaudeville is being offered by the Majestic theater this week by Dr. Pelham, the celebrated English hypnotist. At the theater last night he proved an attraction such as has seldom before been seen in the city. Pelham has been engaged by Manager Koppelberger, for La Crosse, at the enormous weekly salary of $450. He is the highest paid performer that has ever appeared in a vaudeville performance of any kind in this city.

Pelham comes directly from London, where he has just completed a special two year engagement with the London Hippodrome.

One of his particularly sensational feats is the controlling of the blood in a human being. He bares a man's arm and will make the blood leave the veins. The arm is pale as in death and a doctor could operate upon it without the member bleeding. The life giving fluid is then called back into one finger, then another and then into separate members. It is a sensational act which promises to eclipse anything which has ever been put on at any local theater.

The Musical Vynos

The Vynos in a "Musical Farmyard" scored the big comedy and novelty hit of the season. Here is an act that is worth while and many who see it once will go to the Majestic for the sole purpose of seeing it again. It is a combination of good music and refined comedy that will please the most fastidious. The talented performers were obliged to bow their acknowledgment of the generous applause over and over again.

The performers are a man and a woman. They have a farm yard full of farm machinery from which they extract music furnishing a series of pleasant surprises for the audience. It was the bright musical hit of the evening, last night, and promises to be popular during the week.

Malatesta and Pixley

Malatesta and Pixley scored one of the hits of the evening with their singing, dancing and talking sketch. It is a hummer. All last week they were the sensational hit of the show at the La Salle theater at Chicago and judging from the favorable impression they made last night they will be equally favored by local patrons. Pixley's character comedy is one of the pleasing parts of the bill. They have jokes and songs that are new and are blessed with good voices. Their embarkation in vaudeville was auspicious.

Funny Mr. Brown

Gil Brown, that funny American comedian known from one end of the United States to the other as a prince of funny fellows, was applaudingly received in a singing, talking and dancing sketch. Brown has just completed the Orpheum circuit, being one of the biggest hits of the season. His act is one of the best of its kind now on the vaudeville stage and is an added feature of a good bill this week.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Envelope Saturday Night I would away from the city street, With its gloom and its noises rife, Out into the country purr and sweet, Out into the simple life. I know there is rest and quiet there, And peace, and a pure delight; But one thing I'd miss, and miss for fair, Is the envelope Saturday night.

One can raise so much on the well-tilled soil, So many choice things to eat; Cucumbers to slice and cabbages to boil, The squash and the blood-red beet, One can raise so much on his garden patch, And eke out a good appetite! But out of the soil he cannot scratch A full envelope Saturday night.

We would all away from the city's gloom, From its noise and its grimy air, Out, out where the tangled meadows bloom, And the world is sweet and fair. But we stay and stay as the years go by, In the thick of the city's fight, Just to feel the touch, and I wonder why, Of the envelope Saturday night. —Boston Herald.

The Chief Crime The minister's class at the Kirk of Tobermory had been reading the story of Joseph and his brethren, and the minister was asking the boys a few questions in review. Their replies had all been quick, concise and correct, such as: "What great crime did these sons of Jacob commit?" "They sold their brother Joseph." "Quite correct. And for how much did they sell him?" "Twenty pieces of silver."

"And what added to the cruelty and wickedness of these brothers?" A pause. "What made their treachery even more detestable and heinous?" Then a bright little Highlander stretched out an eager hand. "Well, my man?" "Please, sir, they sold him over cheap."—The Housekeeper.

Crafty Advice "Would it be any harm to deceive her about my age?" inquired the elderly millionaire. "Probably not." "I'm sixty. How would it do to confess to fifty?"

"I think your chances would be better with her if you claimed seventy-five."—Washington Herald.

Wonders of the Census Census Enumerator Conklin of this place reports a curious incident on Silver mountain, where people live to be quite old.

Finding an aged man sitting on the front porch and weeping bitterly, the enumerator inquired the trouble, whereupon the man, between sobs, ejaculated, "My dad licked me."

"How old are you?" asked Conklin. "Eighty-nine," was the reply. "Where is your father?" "He is behind the house, splitting wood."

Conklin found the old man engaged at the wood pile and among other questions asked him why he had whipped his son.

"Why, the little cuss was throwing stones at his granddad," the woodchopper answered. Conklin then inquired, "Where is the grandfather?"

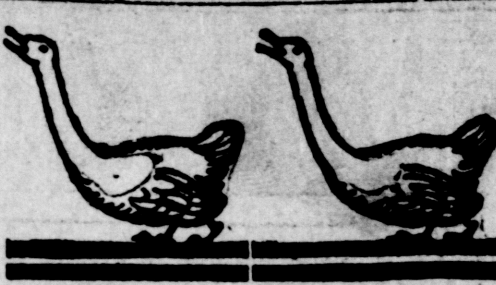

The man said, as he resumed the attack on the wood pile: "Oh, he got hit on the head and has gone in to have his mother put on some sticking plaster."—Millerton (N. Y.) Dispatch in Middletown Register.

"Nice car." "Yes." "Is it the latest thing in cars?" "I guess so; it has never gotten me anywhere on time yet."—Houston Post.

FAKE HAIR PREPARATIONS Do Hair No Good, But Often Cause it to Fall Out

Many hair preparations are "fake" because they are merely scalp irritants. They often cause a dryness, making the hair brittle, and (finally, lifeless. Dandruff is the cause of all trouble with hair. It is a germ disease. The germ makes cuticle scales as it digs to the root of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing it to fall out. To cure dandruff, the germ must be killed. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ, thereby leaving the hair to grow luxuriantly. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One dollar bottles guaranteed. Hoerschler Bros., special agents.

GOOSE GIRL By HAROLD McGRATH Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company

All round him sat ministers or ambassadors; he alone represented a consulate. So his place at the table was honorary rather than diplomatic. It was his lively humorous personality the grand duke admired, not his representations.

The duke sat at the head of the table and her serene highness at the foot; and it was by the force of his brilliant wit that the princess did not hold in perpetuity the court at her end of the table. For a German princess of that time she was highly accomplished; she was ardent, whimsical, with a flashing mentality which rounded out and perfected her physical loveliness. Above and beyond all this, she had suffered, she had felt the pangs of poverty, the smart of unrecognized merit; she had been one of the people, and her sympathies would always be with them, for she knew what those about her only vaguely knew, the patience, the uncomplaining bravery of the poor. Never would she become sated with power so long as it gave her the right to aid the people. Never a new tax was levied that she did not lighten it in some manner; never an oppressive law was promulgated that she did not soften its severity. And so the populace loved her, for it did not take the people long to find out what she was trying to do for them. And perhaps they loved her because she had lived the greater part of her young life as one of them.

"Tonight there was love in the dukes eyes as he looked down the table's length; there was love in the old chancellor's eyes, too; and in Carmichael's. And there was love in her eyes as she gazed back at the two old men. But who could read her eyes whenever they roved in Carmichael's direction? Not even Gretchen's grandmother, who lived in the Krummerweg."

"Gentlemen," said the duke, rising and hiding up his glass, "this night I give you a toast which I believe will be agreeable to all of you, especially to his excellency, Baron von Steinbock of Jugendheim. What is past is past; a new regime begins this night." He paused. All eyes were focused upon him in wonder. Only Baron von Steinbock displayed no more than ordinary interest. "I give you," resumed the duke, "her serene highness and his majesty, Frederick of Jugendheim."

The princess grew delicately pale as the men and women sprang to their feet. Every hand swept toward her, holding a glass. She had surrendered that morning. Not because she wished to be a queen, not because she cared to bring about an alliance between the two countries; not, it was because she was afraid and had burned the bridge behind her.

The tan thinned on Carmichael's face, but his hand was steady. Never would he forget the tableau. She sat still in her chair, her lids drooped, but a proud lift to her chin. The collar of pearls round her neck had scarce more luster than her shoulders. How red her lips seemed against the whiteness of her skin! Beautiful to him beyond all dreams of beauty. God send another war and let him die in the heart of it, fighting! To dream lies as he had done this twelvemonth, to break his heart over the moon! He sat his glass down untouched, happily unobserved. He was in misery; he wanted to be alone.

"Long live her majesty!" thundered the chancellor. He, too, was pale, but the fire of great things burned in his eyes and his lank form took upon itself a transient majesty. In the ball-room the princess was surrounded; everybody flattered her; congratulated her and complimented her. All agreed that it was a great political stroke. And indeed it was, but none of them knew how great.

Carmichael was among the last to approach her. By this time he had his voice and nerves under control. Without apparent volition they walked down the stairs which led to the conservatory.

"I thought perhaps you had forgotten me," she said. "Forget your highness? Do not give me credit for such impossibility." He bowed over her hand and brushed it with his lips. For she was almost royal now. "Your highness will be happy. It is written." He stepped back slowly.

"Have you the gift of prescience?" "In this instance. You will be a great queen."

"Who knows?" dreamily. "When I recall what I have gone through, all this seems like an enchantment out of a fairy-book, and that I must soon wake up in my garret in Dresden."

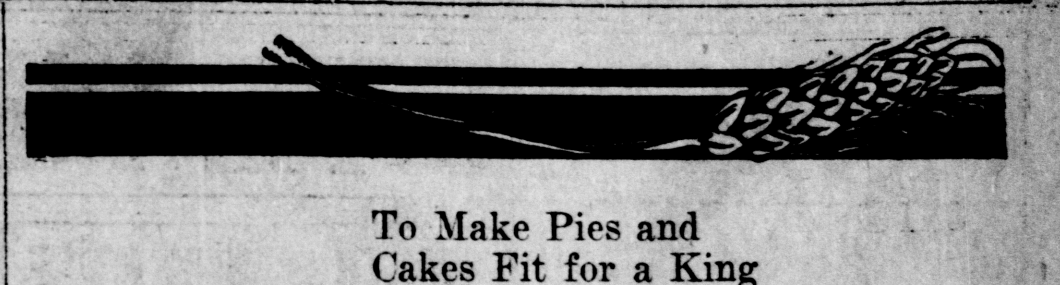

If only it might be an enchantment! he thought. If only he might find her as the grim old chancellor had found her in a garret! What? Dreaming again? He shrugged.

"Why did you do that?" she asked quickly. "I do not understand."

"You shrugged." "I beg your highness' pardon!" flushing. "I was not conscious of such rudeness."

"That is not answering my question." "I beg of your highness—" "My highness commands!" But her voice was gentle.

"It was a momentary dream I had; and the thought of its utter impossibility caused me to shrug."

I assure your highness that it was a philosophical shrug, such as the Stoics were wont to indulge in." He spoke lightly. Only his eyes were serious.

"And this dream; was there not a woman in it?" "Oh, no; there was only an angel."

She knew that it was not proper to question him in this manner; but neither her heart nor her mind were formal tonight.

"You interest me; you always interest me. You have seen so many wonderful things. And now it is angels."

"Only one, your Highness." This was daring. "But perhaps I am putting my foot where angels fear to tread," which was still more daring. "Angels ought not to be afraid of anything." She laughed; there was a pain and a joy in the sound of it. She read his heart as one might read a written line.

"Dreams are always unfinished things," he said, getting back on safer ground.

"What is she like, this angel?" forcing him upon dangerous ground again wilfully.

"Who may describe an angel one has seen only in a golden dream?" "You will not tell me?"

"I dare not!" His eyes sought hers unflinchingly. This moment he was mad, and had not the chancellor and Baron von Steinbock came up. Heaven only knew what further madness would have unbridled his tongue.

"Your Highness," began the benign voice of the chancellor. "The baron desires in the name of his august master, to open the ball with you. Behold my fairy-wand," gaily. "This night I have made you a queen."

"Can you make me happy also?" said she, so low that only the chancellor heard her.

"I shall try. Ah, Herr Captain," with a friendly jerk of his head toward Carmichael; "will you do me the honor to join me in my cabinet, quarter of an hour hence."

"I shall be there, your Excellency," Carmichael was uneasy. He was not certain how much the chancellor had heard.

which I shall need your assistance," supplemented the chancellor.

Carmichael, instead of loitering uselessly in the ball-room, at once sought the chancellor's cabinet. He wanted to be alone. He made known his business to the chancellor's valet who admitted him. He stopped just across the threshold. To his surprise the room was already tenanted by Grumbach and a police officer!

"Why, Grumbach, what are you doing here?" cried Carmichael.

"Waiting for his excellency. We have been here something past an hour."

"What's the trouble?" Carmichael inquired.

"Your excellency knows as much as I do," said the officer, who was in fact no less than the sub-chief of the bureau.

The militia boys were going away to camp on the morrow, and as Lieut. Wellington Grant Smith parted with his sweetheart on the piazza, she said, "I shall stand here to-morrow as you march pass, and throw a kiss at you."

But her soldier-lover said, "No, don't do that!"

"Why not?" she asked.

"Because," laughed he, "ten to one you'd hit the captain."—Judge.

This Free Remedy Helps Sickly Babies

Babies and children suffer mostly from the stomach. There is something wrong with the milk or with the eggs or with the minor articles of food, for it doesn't take much to disturb a child's stomach. One thing the mother can always be sure of and that is that no harm can come from giving a small dose of a mild laxative, for it is sure to be better off for it. You know your own feeling of lightness and ease when that function has been performed, so how much more important is it to the child?

Watch carefully that your child does not become constipated, for if it does not have at least one or two movements of the bowels each day it is constipated. From constipation comes headache, nausea, sour stomach, etc. In these troubles you can obtain nothing better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Give it in the small doses prescribed for children and watch the full of appetite and energy.

Mother all over this country have been using this remedy for a quarter of a century and many heads of families like Mr. C. L. Lynch of Billings, Ala., and Mrs. Amanda Black of Kansas, who would not keep house without it. They have long ago discarded laxative pills, salts and such things for a milder, more gentle and more effective remedy. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a member of the family, from the youngest to the oldest, can use with safety. It is in the homes of most families today than any other laxative, but if you have never used it Dr. Caldwell urges you to send him your name and address and he will send you a sample bottle free of charge. If you use it you will find it is the remedy you have been looking for then buy it in the regular way of your drug store at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing.

In detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. Caldwell, R. 524 Caldwell building, Little Rock, Ark.

The growth of our patronage is evidence that the drug store service we give is the kind the public prefers.

ATTORNEYS FILED BRIEFS MONDAY

Brandeis and Vertrees Are Bitter in Documents Filed in Ballinger Probe

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—Parting shots were exchanged through the medium of three stocky volumes filed with the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee, representing the briefs of counsel on both sides.

The thousand odd pages of the documents bristle with the same sort of vituperation that marked the "trial" from start to finish.

The committee is asked to regard L. R. Glavis, the former field agent as a "patriot" (by Attorney L. D. Brandeis), or a "traitor and a snake" (by Attorney Vertrees); to regard Gifford Pinchot, as the "zealous advocate of good government" (by Attorney Pepper) and an "arch-conspirator seeking to destroy the good name of a cabinet officer," (by Attorney Vertrees.)

Brandeis says: "In our opinion the record amply discloses Mr. Ballinger's knowledge of the situation and shows his hostility to the people's interests and his co-operation with the private special interests which were and are striving to take the people's property in violation of the law."

Pepper says: "Whatever may be the form of their (the committee) report, we trust that they will record their definite conviction that the immediate care of the public domain is now in unsafe hands."

Vertrees says: "It is no idle thing to assail the character of a member of the cabinet. He is one of the advisors of the president and dishonorable conduct on his part not only brings disgrace to him as an individual, but reproach upon the government of the republic itself."

Consequently such an accusation ought not to be lightly brought. There ought surely to be substantial grounds. Here, it may be asserted, there are absolutely none. This prosecution is cruel, and it is baseless."

Attorney Vertrees dwelt considerably on the "conspiracy" which he declared was being prosecuted against Ballinger by Pinchot, Glavis and Garfield.

Attorney Pepper declared such an accusation baseless, saying that "it is the convicted man who usually raises the cry that the police and the prosecutor have conspired against him."

Attorney Pepper in his brief contends that the case is really a charge against the executive. "We find it not a little difficult in these days of the reign of law," it reads, "to justify the course of the legislature in proceeding to investigate the executive. As, however, the inquiry was requested by the secretary of the interior he cannot complain if full jurisdiction is taken by the committee."

In conclusion, Attorney Brandeis sums up:

"These facts which have been stated are proved by the record and by this record the department of the interior is to be judged. It is not the same record which was before the president."

"In this proceeding Mr. Wickham appears no longer as an assistant."

Attorney Vertrees dwelt considerably on the "conspiracy" which he declared was being prosecuted against Ballinger by Pinchot, Glavis and Garfield.

Attorney Pepper in his brief contends that the case is really a charge against the executive. "We find it not a little difficult in these days of the reign of law," it reads, "to justify the course of the legislature in proceeding to investigate the executive. As, however, the inquiry was requested by the secretary of the interior he cannot complain if full jurisdiction is taken by the committee."

BLITZ AND BLATZ

Blitz—Everytime I meet you, I am the gainer for knowledge. Do you remember you spoke to me about "Lees Cream" being such an excellent thing for the skin?

Blatz—Certainly. Nothing else acts so prompt and soothingly in all cases of roughened or sunburned skin.

Blitz—Mrs. Blatz and myself took quite an auto trip yesterday. It was raw and windy, and after returning she complained about her face hurting and burning severely.

I immediately went to Beyschlag's Drug Store, 503 Main street, for a 25c bottle of that "Lees Cream," and applied it freely to Mrs. Blatz's face. In the morning all the unpleasant symptoms had absolutely disappeared.

Blatz—I know it. That's the way "Lees Cream" always acts.

Blitz—I would not have believed it, that any remedy could have such marvelous effect over night had I not witnessed it. Blatz, I want you to accept this beautiful souvenir, which I just bought for you at Mrs. Guillaume's.

It is not often that four sisters living at distant points meet at the same time under one roof and all are enjoying the event.

Miss Jennie Brindley of Minneapolis is here for her vacation which she will spend with her brother, Judge John Brindley and family.

Miss Agnes Anderson has gone to Chicago.

Miss Hardy, who has been teaching at Great Falls, Mont., arrived home yesterday and will spend her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hardy.

Mrs. George Skelton of Billings is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Smith. She will spend a few weeks here and then go to the seashore for the rest of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Reitzel have returned from a motor trip to Chicago.

HARD ON CHILDREN
When Teacher Has Coffee Habit

"Best is best, and best will ever live." When a person feels this way about Postum they are glad to give testimony for the benefit of others.

A school teacher down in Miss says: "I had been a coffee drinker since my childhood, and the last few years it had injured me seriously."

"One cup of coffee taken at breakfast would cause me to become so nervous that I could scarcely go through with the day's duties, and this nervousness was often accompanied by deep depression of spirits and heart palpitation."

"I am a teacher by profession, and when under the influence of coffee had to struggle against crossness when in the school room."

"When talking this over with my physician, he suggested that I try Postum, so I purchased a package and made it carefully according to directions; found it excellent of flavor, and nourishing."

"In a short time I noticed very gratifying effects. My nervousness disappeared, I was not irritated by my pupils, life seemed full of sunshine, and my heart troubled me no longer."

"I attribute my change in health and spirits to Postum alone."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CLASS PLAY IS PROGRESSING FAST

"Between the Acts," the class play to be given by the graduating class of the high school in the auditorium Friday night is progressing nicely under the capable direction of Mrs. Ross and indications are that it will be one of the best plays given at commencement for a long time. All the players are doing well and taking such a keen interest in it, that this fact alone is indicative of success. Almost all of those in the cast have had experience along this line, and when the curtain goes up at 8 o'clock the audience is certain of witnessing a fine performance. All are working hard to put on a good show, and it is hoped that a large crowd will be out to see what they can do.

WATER LOWER THAN IN SEVERAL YEARS

The stage of water at the present time is lower than in several seasons, and river prophets have had their calculations all upset by the failure of the "June rise" to materialize thus far.

Many of the dams which are ordinarily sunken are showing above the water, and the bass banks for miles up and down the river are out of the river, to the delight of the anglers.

The motorboat docks at Pettibone park have been caught in the fall and are high and dry on the rocks, but officers of the La Crosse Motorboat club this morning called upon Park Watchman Peter Hass, and arrangements have been made to have the landings put back into the water and kept floating for the remainder of the season.

part I, commencement exercises, part II, class play, entitled, "Patricia or 'The Unknown Martyr'." A drama in four acts and of serious, historical nature, presenting scenes that in the language of Macaulay
"Carry the mind back to the time when the smoke of sacrifice rose from the Pantheon and when camel-opards and tigers bounded in the Flavian amphitheater" and the blood of Christians of all ranks, sex, and age flowed in the streets of Rome and reddened the Tiber.In this play the ancient pagan spirit is admirably contrasted with the Christian spirit.The time is during the Roman persecution of the Christians in the reign of Caesar Septimus Severus.

THIEVES ABANDON BOAT ON SHOREThe skiff stolen from the camp of W. V. Kidder, three miles north of the city, Saturday night, was recovered yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock by the owner, lying on the bank behind the dam opposite the Y. M. C. A. camp on the Wisconsin shore. The contents of the boat had not been molested, and it is presumed tramps from the vicinity of River Junction utilized the boat to get to the Wisconsin shore, and then abandoned it. The La Crosse Motorboat club had started a vigorous campaign for the apprehension of the thief, but this will now be dropped, as there is small chance of finding the guilty parties. A combined reward of $30 was offered for the recovery of the lost boat and conviction of the thieves, but as the boat was recovered by the owner who spent the afternoon searching for it, the reward money will be returned in the treasury of the Motorboat club for the apprehension of future thieves.THE DEVIL IN THE LIVERY OF HEAVENThat Is what La Follette's Manager Calls the Convention of the "Interests"MADISON, Wis., June 14.—Leaders of the La Follette cause here look upon the recent stalwart convention at Milwaukee as a gathering bearing on all its sides the stamp of illegitimacy. In no way, it is said, can it be construed as legal, nor can it even disburse money as a regularly organized campaign body.Interviewed upon the subject today, C. H. Crownhart, manager of the campaign of Robert M. La Follette for the senate, sized it up in the following manner:"The Milwaukee meeting was not a republican convention. It was a conference of the representatives of the 'interests.'""Twenty-three men close affiliated and fertile in secret schemes met in secret and called a meeting of their fellows. They called it a republican convention. The devil in the livery of heaven would be the devil still. No republican convention was ever called or constituted in that way. None ever will be.""The republican party in Wisconsin is represented by a state central committee and its chairman. This committee nor its chairman never called or endorsed the Milwaukee meeting. The twenty-three self-seekers named all the men that attended their conference. Not a party caucus, not a party primary, nor a party county convention, not a party mass meeting was held to select delegates. Under the guise of republicans and friends of Gov. Davidson, these representatives of privilege and plunder met to plan Senator La Follette's defeat. They talked of party regularity, but every move they made was in defiance of party regularity and in defiance of party law.""Had a republican convention been called, the friends of La Follette would have carried every county in the state, as they will carry every county at the September primary.""The inside history of the secret sessions of the twenty-three is yet to be told. Their conference was born under a false flag; it lived in disguise; it died unhonored and unsung."CY YOUNG RELEASED BY MAN'G'R SAFFORDPitcher Cy Young, who has been with the team since the beginning of the season and who started the game yesterday, was released by Manager Safford last night. Young had failed to show sufficient twirling ability to remain with the Outcasts, having a tendency to become wild as the game progressed. His donations of bases on balls were often disastrous, and it was thought best to release him. Pitcher Freeman has been signed by the management. He comes here from Des Moines in the Western league. Freeman has a good record and will be remembered as one of the twirling staff of the Green Bay team in the W. A. league three years ago.Shortstop Britton was also released last night. Britton played a few games with the team on the road, but proved to be an erratic fielder and not much of a hitter.
Doll will be kept at short and Connel will cover third.PLEADS OWN CASE, BUT GOES TO JAIL"Your Honor, I move that the defendants be discharged because the state has absolutely failed to prove its case," said Frank Ray, after making an argument before Judge Brinley in county court yesterday afternoon when he appeared as his own attorney being charged with robbing a slot machine in a town of Campbell saloon. I. N. Griffin, who was also charged with the same offense, was discharged while Ray was sentenced to the county jail for forty days.The two defendants appeared in court without an attorney but Mr.
Ray conducted the case as if he were an old practitioner. He cross examined every witness and at the close of the testimony made an argument to the court. Although it was a technical case the court found Ray guilty and Griffin was found to be innocent.

we went to Detroit, returning to took our time on the trip, being out

FOR CHAUTAUQUABusiness Men Taking Big Interest; Some Reasons
why Everybody Should Boost EnterpriseLa Crosse people will be glad to learn that the La Crosse Chautauqua will be held this season in a place that is not only accessible but roomy and suitable in every way.The quarters occupied last season were somewhat cramped and much speculation has been indulged as to the proper thing to do. But through the efforts of Rev. Panzau, the efficient local representative, the commodious quarters between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets on Madison have been secured. Here the assembly will have plenty of room to spread and the grounds are accessible and pleasant.The business men are showing commendable interest in this undertaking. Two years ago the Chautauqua was looked upon as a passing show. Last year it began to assume a more substantial form in popular conception. This season the people are looking upon it as one of the institutions that has earned a right to the hearty co-operation and support of all good people.There is little doubt now that the co-operation of the people will make it possible for us to retain this institution, so full of thought-provoking programs and genuine and wholesome entertainment. Then it comes at a season when other forms of diversion are at a standstill.The Chautauqua is one of the most cosmopolitan and democratic of movements. It abounds in good things for all who have a care beyond the calls of natural appetite.
Its rich variety of programs and the high grade of all it offers are calculated to minister to the needs of all. The great wonder is how so much can be mobilized and presented to the people at so trifling a cost.Then this is an institution that appeals strongest to the best elements of the community. For some it is not fast enough. But fast or slow, it exercises the brain, quickens the consciousness and lightens the heart. Thousands have come to look forward to its coming with anticipations of genuine pleasure.But the Chautauqua is not primarily for mummies. It is a live institution for live people. Here the leading thinkers of the times discuss live themes. Here travelers reveal the wonders of other countries. Here musicians discourse the divinest melodies. Here wholesome entertainment and choice wit furnish diversion and give added zest to life. It would be hard to over-estimate the good accomplished.The morning hour is full of good things. The grounds afford a meeting place for neighbors and friends.
It is a week's surcease from the grind of life, the load of care.So well situated as it is, the advance season ticket sale almost over, the people awakening to the real benefits to the community, and with the best program ever offered, the La Crosse Chautauqua seems to be coming to its own.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cat-requires a constitutional treatment.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken interand mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitu-its work. The proprietors have so

RUESGEN SORRY FOR THE MURDER

Since Being Confined to the County Jail He Said
Too Much Whisky
was the Cause

"Too much whisky was the cause of the affair," said Matt Ruesgen to Sheriff Duncan, while he was being taken to the county jail yesterday, after having pleaded guilty and was bound over to the circuit court without bail.

While Ruesgen had little to say in the court room, regarding the affair, he has somewhat changed since being taken to the county jail. He says he is sorry for the deed, but lays it to his drinking and his quick temper. Had he been sober he believes he would have done differently.

The prisoner has not broken down, however, and has been able to eat three square meals since his arrest.
He is confined to one of the cages in the middle of the jail and is not allowed to roam about in the corridor.

WOLCOTT'S STORE IS BURGLARIZED

The Regulator store at Dresbach, Minn., belonging to V. Wolcott was broken into early Sunday morning, by thieves who robbed him of groceries and provisions valued at about $50. No one has been arrested for the crime.

Mr. Wolcott, who is visiting in the city today, said: "The thieves broke in through the door and a window and took about $50 worth of groceries. I was visiting here at the time and when I heard of the robbery I hurried back, getting to Dresbach Monday. I haven't any clue to the burglars, but I could get them. I have been in the detective business for thirty-five years. I will get them before fall."

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY ON A GOOD DAIRY FARM

HERE IT IS:

A 200 acre first class Wisconsin dairy farm, only 40 miles from La Crosse, one mile from creamery, churches, high school and station. Rich soil, fine water, good house, barns, sheds and fencing. Wagons, farm implements, stock and growing crops included. This farm will keep 50 dairy cows and is worth at least $55 per acre—$11,000—without the improvements, wagons, farm implements, stock and growing crops, which are worth at least $12,500. The stock included consists of 11 cows, one-half interest in 9 cows, 4 young stock, 4 large hogs, 30 pigs, and about 75 chickens. The dairy cows on this farm brought in $63 each last year. Right now the cream checks run over $100 per month. You can buy this farm, improvements, wagons, stock, crops, and farm implements for $8,000. $3,500 cash, balance long time mortgage. This is not an irrigation proposition. Nature does that work for you. It's a place where you can make money and it's a good place to live. It would take you but a day to go out and look this farm over carefully and see it for yourself. Call or write today, for you know that this is too good a bargain to be on the market long.

After a little flurry around the opening the market became quiet and prices held steady.

The strength in wheat exerted a beneficial influence on corn prices and while the market was not active it was firm and prices early advanced.

Demmer had a perfect batting average yesterday getting three hits in three times at bat.

Malloy wrangled in the same style as Joe Killian used to do, yesterday, and the fans didn't appreciate it a bit.

The Indian's catcher, Thomas, was benched for wrangling with the umpire and many in the stand were of the opinion that a few more of the players should have been chased benched.

Eddie Klein also had a perfect sticking average yesterday. He got three hits, two stolen bases and one run.

Greggory surprised the local fans by getting a hit in the game yesterday.

Manager Artie O'Dea of Superior has entirely recovered from his recent illness accelerated, no doubt, by the easy victory over Duluth yesterday.

Pettijohn had a rather inauspicious start in the Minny league Sunday getting no hits and making two bad errors.

Well that Cy Augustus Dahlgren has made it five straight now for the Superior aggregation. If he keeps it up he will make a record for the league.

The team leaves tonight for Wausau where they will meet the Lumberjacks in three games after which they return home for a week's work.

OUTCASTS WIN SECOND GAME

Take a Wranglefest from Red Wing by the Score of 6 to 5; Thomas Is Benched

The Red Wing aggregation lost the second game of the series yesterday by the close score of 6 to 5, showing the local team a notch ahead of the Manufacturers again.

There was a medium sized crowd present to see the victory which was slightly marred by wrangling on the part of the Red Wing players.

Each team used two pitchers. Young was yanked in the third inning and Whittaker was trotted out to do service. He performed well, allowing but three hits. Fautsch went wild in the fourth round allowing too many walks and Big Chief Roy was started for the hill to finish the game. Catcher Thomas was benched by Griffith in the sixth round for disputing decisions in the fifth.

Red Wing scored on the jump. Malloy, who had gotten a base on balls, was safe on second when Wals dropped the pill. Black's hit advanced him to third and the slam by the right field guardian brought Mike across.

La Crosse came back with a single score in the third, Connell being forced across the plate by a walk after the sacks were full. In their share of the round the Indians had annexed four runs. Malloy, Kelley, Black and Boyle each hit safely and scored. A few misplays counted in the run getting. La Crosse came back on the jump in the fourth round and tied up the score. Klein got a base on balls and scored on Doll's two bagger. Kuehn and Whittaker, who had been substituted for Young each got a walk. Connell slammed to Gregory, who threw Doll out at home. Ward dropped one into center field which scored Kuehn and Whittaker. On a sacrifice fly in left field Connell scored the tying run of the game. There was no more run getting until the seventh when the Outcasts managed to force over the winning count. Safford, who had gotten a two base hits, scored when Klein hit to right field. ATHLETES SWAMP NEW LISBONERS

The La Crosse Athletics swept the fast New Lisbon team off their feet Sunday afternoon, when they defeated them by the score of 23 to 8. "Lefty" Smith of Lake Shore league fame, and who hails from Tomah, was on the mound for New Lisbon and was touched up for a total of 26 hits, most of them of the extra base variety. New Lisbon secured 8 hits, most of which came in the last few innings, when Nutting had to slacken in his pace on account of a painful injury to Catcher Davis' hand. Davis' work behind the bat and with it, was one of the features of the game. Hackner, the Athletics' new third sacker, led in the run getting, crossing the plate five times, while Evenson led with the stick, securing four hits out of six trips to the plate. The game was played on the military grounds at Camp Douglas before a large crowd.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderful beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by O. T. Erhart.
